Description

I love to see lyrics of the currently played music in my audio players.

However when using lyricWiki plugin, it doesn't seem to be integrated into the the player too much from the UI perspective.

Instead of new window only, I'd like to see some place of the main player UI where this could be shown following the look of the amarok UI (GTK/winamp).

Plugin windows can be docked to the GTK interface by doing a right-click on the border of the window.
Or are you talking about the Winamp interface?
