Description
From My perspective Audacious is a powerful and simple player. But its Music organising is lacking. No Album Artist columns even, or custom sort preferences. I have been using banshee simply because it has a few of the functions I miss the most from MusicBee which is hands down the best music organiser around (windows only.) But banshee is not so flexible with audio settings, and passes everything through PulseAudio, so its not lossless. Basically I'm saying people tend to use a player that they can navigate the best. And that is where Audacity lacks a little. http://getmusicbee.com/ My request is to look at MusicBee and possibly implement some features, starting with Album Artist, and custom sorting.
